Cabanga Review

Cabanga is a card game which uses colourful cards and is really fun to play. The game is about numbers and the theme is carnival which makes it interesting for younger users.

First of all, you have to hand out eight cards each and don't show your cards to the other players. You will see that each of the cards have different numbers on them and have at least five different colours on them too. You will see cards which are Red, Blue, Yellow and Purple. On the cards there will be masks in the middle of the table and then you pick up the grey cards and put them either side of the masks. These cards will have numbers on them as well. After that, the person who wants to go first will look at their coloured cards and choose the card that is a close number to the grey card. If someone has a card that colour and is in between for example if the grey card was number 20 and they put the number 24 down anyone that has a card that colour and is between 20 and 24 will give the person that card. The aim of the game is to be the first person to have no cards left. The cards look like this.
