

Cabanga Review

By Sebby

The game that I have decided to review is called Cabanga. It is a card game similar to uno but with different themes such as discarding methods, number of cards and more. Cabanga is a fast paced game that consist of 2-4 players trying to discard all of their cards the fastest.

The game starts with 2-4 players facing of head to head to play all their cards as fast as possible. Players will take it in turns to place down a card above or below a colourful mask. Each card has a number, a colour and is worth a certain amount of points. The game is relatively easy to master once you understand it.

My favourite part of the game was throwing the cards instead of simply casting them aside. It was a more involving way to discard your cards. Cabanga was very enjoyable because I got to play it with my friends. I think my family would enjoy it because they quite enjoy uno.

The game contains lots of colourful cards that were fun to use to make itself stand out more to a younger audience, cards have to be placed down each turn. I would love to play Cabanga again because it was very complicated and yet easy to get the hang of once you understand it, if I were to change something about it, I would change the rule to stop one mask from being constantly placed on to make the game less confusing.

If I were to rate Cabanga in stars I would give it a solid 4.5-5 since the only negative drawback is the complextyof the rules. If my friends asked me what I thought about Cabanga I would tell them that if I got half a chance I would play it again and would recommend it to anyone who likes uno.
